This Week at Wheatfield and Home

It's been an up and down week with the weather but that hasn't dampened our spirits! Many of you will have seen the announcements, yesterday, about the re-opening of schools in September. We are currently working our way through the guidance and will contact you when we have a clear plan for how we will make these new guidelines work, at Wheatfield.

Phil Winterburn - Headteacher

Inspired to Believe T-Shirt

Our limited edition 'Inspired to Believe' T-Shirts are now on sale via School Gateway. These are available in both child and adult sizes so it's possible to send the whole family out in matching garments! Prices are as follows:

Child sizes: £6.50

Adult sizes: £7.50

At least £2 from every sale will go towards the Southmead Hospital Charity – we want to support the staff there who have had to work under such extreme and intense conditions, in recent months. A special 'thank you' to our uniform provider, 'Initially Yours' for contributing by reducing the cost price of each T-Shirt by £1.

Reports

A few people have asked whether they will be able to collect sibling reports at the same time on Monday 13th July – just to assure you that this was always our plan but we should have made it clearer in our piece last week. 😊

Welly Planters

This week our Pods have been breathing new life into some old wellies by planting them with some summer flowers. Each planter has its own label and message – we look forward to watching them bloom!

Holiday Clubs

Several people have asked about holiday provision for children. The government have this week announced that there is not a requirement for schools to provide provision for key workers or vulnerable pupils over the summer holiday. At present, we believe it is very unlikely that any sort of holiday provision (from Shine) will be able to run on site this summer. We apologise for any inconvenience this may cause.
